1.2 Concept

Pregnancy or gravity is the condition in which a woman carries a fertilized egg, which grows into an embryo and then a fetus. A pregnancy of between 37 and 42 weeks is considered normal. "Term pregnancy" is 37 to 42 weeks. The term gravity is also used for the number of times a woman has been pregnant. This and parity - the number of times a woman has given birth - provides insight into the patient's obstetric history.

1.3 Mindmap

1.4 Purpose

If the patient is pregnant, it is important to mention this, as it requires specific attention in their care.

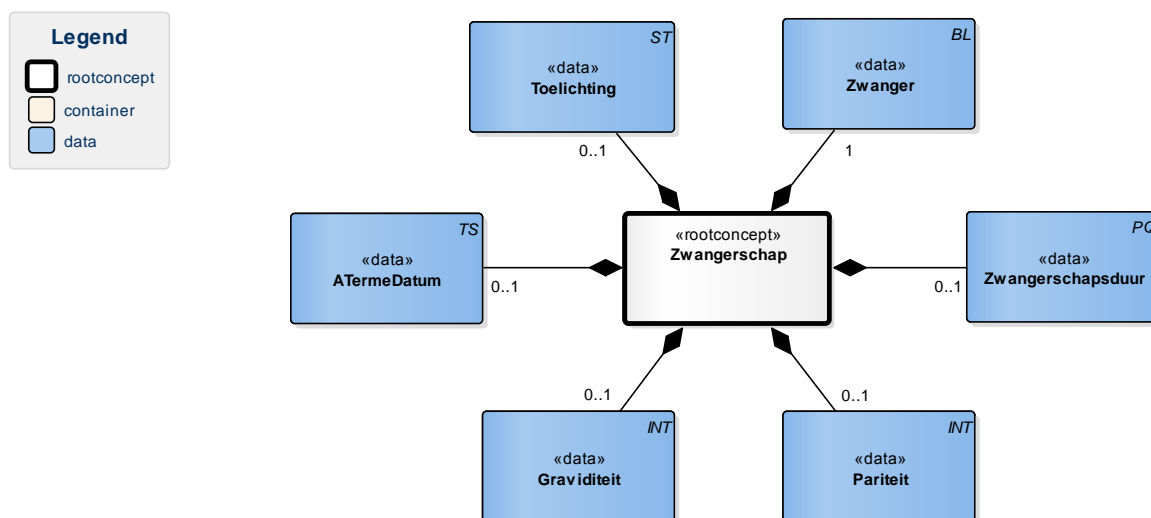

Pregnancy can influence treatment decisions, the treatment itself and the patient’s care.

1.5 Patient Population

1.6 Evidence Base

The standard Perinatology information set was consulted in drawing up this building block.
